DETAILED ACTION

1. This action is responsive to communication: Response, filed on 12/07/05.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

2. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

3. Claims 1-11 and 13-15 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Le et al., US# 2003/0065949 A1, in view of Zachariassen et al., US# 2002/0062280 A1.

As per claim 1, Le et al. teaches "a database of records relating to a plurality of shipments of goods, where said goods are shipped between at least two jurisdictions, each record having information relating to at least a first jurisdiction and a second jurisdiction; a database server in communication with said database" (see paragraph [0079], [0088], [0090], and [0094]) "an application server in communication with said database server for providing a user interface to at least one client, each said client associated with a member of a supply chain for a particular one of said plurality of shipments of said goods" (see paragraph [0003], [0024], [0094]). Le et al. does not explicitly teach "said interface allowing each said member to modify at least a portion of a record relating to said particular one of said plurality of shipments of said goods." Zachariassen et al. teaches "said interface allowing each said member to modify at least a portion of a record relating to said particular one of said plurality of shipments of said goods" (see paragraph [0022], [0109], and [0134]). It would have been obvious at the time of the invention for one ordinary skill in the art the tools to have combined the teachings of Le and Zachariassen, because using the steps "said interface allowing each said member to modify at least a portion of a record relating to said particular one of said plurality of shipments of said goods" would have given those skilled in the art the tools to manipulated the records of shipments of individual products or groups of products in a individual specific fashion. This gives users the advantage of controlling the shipments of products more efficiently.

As per claim 2, Le et al. teaches "wherein said application server only allows a particular one of said members to modify said at least a portion of said record if said particular one of said members has proper security authorization" (see paragraph [0042]-[0043]).

As per claim 3, Le et al. teaches "an electronic data interchange server in communication with said database server" (see paragraph [0052], and [0059]-[0060]).

As per claim 4, "said electronic data interchange server allows said system to exchange information with databases and data repositories of said members of said supply chain" (see paragraph [0005] and [0104]-[0105]).

As per claim 5, Le et al. teaches "wherein said electronic data interchange server allows access to databases maintained by governments of said jurisdictions" (see paragraph [0077], [0079], and [0088]).

As per claim 6, Le et al. "a file transfer protocol server for enabling receipt and transmission of said records using the file transfer protocol" (see paragraph [0016], [0094] [0105]).

As per claim 7, Le et al. "a hyper-text transfer protocol (HTTP) server for enabling receipt of a request for a page and transmission of said page to an origin of said request" (see abstract, paragraph [0016}).

As per claim 8-12, these claims are rejected on grounds corresponding to the argument given above for rejected claims 1-4 and are similarly rejected including the following:

--Le teaches "determining whether said instruction to modify relates to a portion of said one of said records . . . which said member has modification authority" (see [0036] and [0042], whereas Le's teachings of a firewall for limiting access to verified users in paragraph [0036] teachings the request to authenticate to access an network element and Le's teachings of defining the firewall combined with Le's teachings of a gate-keeping message element, reads on applicant's claim language).

--"query for information stored in databases maintained by governments of said at least two jurisdictions" (see paragraph [0088] and [0090]) "at least two jurisdiction to determine a clearance status of a given shipment of said plurality of shipments of said goods" (see paragraph[0079] and [0094]).

As per claims 13-14, these claims are rejected on grounds corresponding to the arguments given above for rejected claim 1-4 and 8 and are similarly rejected.

As per claims 15, this claim is rejected on grounds corresponding to the arguments given above for rejected claims 1-3 is similarly rejected.

Response to Arguments

4. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1-11 and 13-15 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

--As per applicant's arguments regarding "none of the discussed databases includes records, wherein each record has 'data required to process exporting of a product . . . importing of a product to a second jurisdiction' . . .", examiner disagrees and maintains that Le's teachings of various databases regarding the importing and exporting of products, includes required data for each record in those databases as illustrated in applicant's claim language.
